POSSIBLE REACTIONS TO LYMPH DRAINAGE THERAPY

You may experience detoxification reactions two to six days following a session, depending on the amount of toxins in your body.

Here are some examples of possible reactions.

Common Reactions:

- ◇ Sluggishness, nausea, muscle aches, pain, tiredness. If these don't last, they usually indicate the release of toxins.
- ◇ Urinary reactions: urination may be more often and/or in greater quantity. The urine may be very concentrated at the beginning and very clear after a while (less toxins, more water). There may be a strong odor (toxins).
- ◇ Regarding sleep: You may feel a pleasant tiredness and sleep more. Afterward you may feel very fresh and alert. However, you may have the opposite reaction and not want to sleep. You may feel so energized that you will not want to sleep, but you will also not be tired in the morning.
- ◇ Some bones can spontaneously readjust (tension release).
- ◇ You may experience:
 - Better memory
 - Better taste – also “better taste” for life
 - Better smell
 - Better visual perception of distance and color
- ◇ Emotions: You may cry, sigh, or yawn a lot during the session (signs of emotional release).
- ◇ Acute signs of fever can be signs of detoxification reactions and should not remain more than two or three days.

The “Nothing” Reaction:

In about 6% of cases the “nothing” reaction may indicate another problem that must be addressed first, e.g., bone misalignment, lack of vitamins or nutrients, teeth problems (fillings, infections), etc.

LYMPH DRAINAGE THERAPY

Lymph Drainage Therapy is a method of stimulating your lymph and body fluid. It is a very gentle hands-on procedure that will help you eliminate fluid retention, cleanse your body and eliminate toxins and trapped proteins in your tissues. It will stimulate your immune system, help you to relax, and release stress and emotional trauma. It has many other effects on your body, as well. To receive the best results, you should respect the following preliminary procedures.

Before the Session

You are encouraged to tell your therapist if you have any medical conditions, including thyroid problems, a high fever or infection, acute heart or kidney conditions, a fresh scar or burn, or if you are menstruating or pregnant. You should also mention if you are wearing contact lenses.

For optimal results, and to prepare the system for the cleansing, please drink a lot of water or fresh, natural juice for the two to four days preceding a session.

At a minimum, eat lightly the day of your initial drainage in order to avoid possible toxic reactions. Raw fruits and raw or steamed vegetables are preferred.

During the Session

It is not necessary for you to disrobe. Share with your therapist if your back or neck is uncomfortable or if you feel cold. Prepare yourself to relax and be completely cared for – this is a special time for you.

The therapist will need to concentrate in order to achieve the best results; therefore, silence is appreciated during the slow, rhythmic movements of the lymph drainage. During the session, your practitioner may ask you to breathe deeply and slowly at various times in order to activate the lymphatic system.

After the Session

You will be encouraged to give any feedback or share any feelings or emotions you may have felt during the session.

You may or may not have post-treatment reactions. You may want to sleep a lot or you may experience sluggishness or muscle aches. This simply means that toxins are being eliminated from your body. Be sure that you are steady before driving.

It is very important for you to drink as much as possible to help flush out the toxins.

Brief Description of Techniques:

CranioSacral Therapy – CranioSacral Therapy was developed by John E. Upledger, osteopathic physician, in the 1970's. Therapy is performed using light touch while the practitioner monitors the rhythm of the craniosacral system to detect restrictions and imbalances. Gentle manual techniques are used to release the restrictions in the problem areas and to relieve undue pressure on the brain and spinal cord. The goal of therapy is to have a central nervous system that is free of restrictions and that the body will perform at it's optimal level.

Lymph Drainage Therapy – The therapy approach is an original hands-on method of lymphatic drainage that was developed by Bruno Chikly, MD, of France. Lymph Drainage therapy allows practitioners to detect the specific rhythm, direction, depth and quality of the lymphatic flow. The result of therapy is to achieve optimal lymph flow. Light pressure is used during therapy to determine the best alternative pathways for draining body-fluid stagnations. It is beneficial in the correction of numerous conditions, as well as a useful tool in preventive health maintenance. Lymph Drainage Therapy works to activate fluid circulation and stimulate the functioning of the immune system and the parasympathetic nervous system.

QiGong – an ancient art of healing that involves meditation exercises to improve self-awareness and build internal energy to develop a healthy body both physically and spiritually. Techniques are used to identify energy blockages in the body and to clear the blockages.
